DISTRIBUTION OF AUTO LICENSE TAGS

COLLECTING FEES BY DEPUTY STATE REGISTRARS ILLEGAL

Ohio During Past Year Realized $11,689,928.87 From Licenses at Cost of $294,580.45—System of Distribution Credited With Effecting Savings.

With the general assembly swinging into the first lap of what is likely to develop into one of the outstanding sessions in the state's history, political leaders are discussing what probable action of legislature will take in the matter of automobile license tags.

The issue has been to the front for the last several weeks, since the attorney general's office ruled that the collection by deputy state registrars of a nominal service charge was illegal. The ruling has the effect of abolishing the state's method of distributing the tags.

On Secretary of State Brown's promise that the department would make every effort to bring about an adjustment, the registrars and automobile clubs throught the state save carried on the work and licenses are now being distributed as quickly as possible.

The legislature will probably be faced with two measures dealing with the issue. Either an appropriation for the distribution must be made, or the statute which results in the attorney general's opinion must be amended and the charge made legal. Leaders are inclined to the belief that the latter method would be to the best interest of the state, as it is not a burden on the state treasury, the small service charge being paid by the automobile owners themselves.

Secretary of State Brown, commenting on the situation, said the present method has been very effective, from the standpoint of quick distribution and a saving to the state. He is inclined, also to the belief that the best interest of the state will be served by the retention of the present system.

MANY ESSAYS ARE WRITTEN FOR CONTEST.

Club members who are writing essays on the subject, "Why Dad Should be a Farm Bureau Member in Pickaway County," must mail the essays or bring them to the Farm Bureau office before January 20.

The boys and girls are showing much interest in this contest and a good many essays are expected to be written.

AER-O-PLANE COUPON HOLDERS.

Aer-O-Plane ticket holders who have not been able to exchange their coupons for admission tickets for the movie picture performance Thursday evening, January 15, are kindly requested to count out $25 worth and have them ready at the door so as to cause as little delay as possible in counting same.

Sneeze Gas Rids Boats of Stowaways

Manila. — Manila's fame up and down the China coast as a good port for beach combers, where stowing away on army transports is easy, is passing away.

Sneeze gas, furnished by the chemical warfare service of the Philippine department of the United States army, is forced into the hold of every transport for a period of 24 hours just before departure, thus making the hold uninhabitable.

Not a single stowaway was found on the transport Thomas when it touched at China on its last trip. On previous trips, the discovery of fifteen or twenty was not uncommon.

should the legislature pass an amendment allowing the collection by registrars of a small service charge which would not exceed twenty-five cents.

Figures compiled by the secretary of state's office show that of the $8,122,166 collected in Massachusetts in 1924 from automobile owners, $840,000 went for operating expenses.

Ohio, during the same year, realized $11,689,928.87 from licenses and collected the amount at a gross cost of $294,580.45.

These figures show that Ohio's gross collection cost averaged only 1.95 per cent, while the cost on many states exceeded four per cent, several spending as high as six per cent of the revenue for collection.

The state's system of distribution is credited with effecting the savings.

WORLD WAR HISTORY.

Professor George H. Crow, director of extension work at the Ohio university, Athens, will be in the city Monday and will organize a class for the study of World war history. Any teacher, student or any one interested in the study of history relating to the recent World war, are eligible to become students. The fee is $8, which covers fifteen lessons. The class will meet at the Corwin building next Monday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock.

FOUR MEETINGS

Of Interest To Ohio Livestock Producers Announced For the Month of February.

(United Press.)

Columbus, Jan. 14.—Four meetings of interest to Ohio's livestock producers are announced for the month of February. They include the annual meetings of the co-operative commission associations on the Buffalo, Cleveland and Pittsburgh markets and of the Ohio Livestock Co-operative Association.

The Buffalo terminal livestock co-operative will hold its meeting at Buffalo February 10. A similar meeting of members of the farmer owned firm on the Cleveland market will be held Feb. 12 at Cleveland. The Pittsburgh producers will meet here Feb. 17 and the representatives of county co-operatives will be here for the annual meeting of the Ohio Livestock Co-operative Association on Feb. 18 and 19.

KEEP RECORD OF POULTRY PRODUCTION

Mrs. Fetherolf, First; Mrs. Hay and Mrs. Brinker, Second and Mrs. Schleich, Third.

Mrs. E. H. Fetherolf, of Saltcreek township, was first in egg production of those keeping poultry calendar records, for the month of December. Mrs. Fetherolf's flock of Rhode Island Reds averaged 10.5 eggs per bird for the month, which is 2.5 eggs above the standard set by the university for the month of December.

Mrs. Hay and Mrs. Brinker, of Walnut township, averaged 9.1 with their flock. Mrs. Charles Schleich of Deer-creek township had an average of 7.35 per bird for the month. Other records showed averages ranging from 5.7 to 1.4. Farmers having these calendars are urgently requested to use them. Mail reports to County Agent J. D. Bragg and to the poultry department, Ohio State university.

NEWS ABOUT COURT HOUSE

General Happenings Taken From the Records of the Various County Offices.

The case of the state against Chauncey Moss indicted by the January grand jury on the charge of committing rape by consent preferred by Bessie Lagore and which has been on trial since Monday in common pleas court before Judge Curtain, was given to the jury Tuesday afternoon at 1:15 o'clock. The jury deliberated until 9:30 Tuesday night and being unable to agree were discharged. Meeker Terwilliger represented the state and L. F. Snyder and M. C. Seyfert Jr., the state.

The trial of Cecil Kurth indicted on the same charge by Bessie Lagore will go on trial Thursday. The same attorneys will defend him.

FIRE ALARM.

An alarm of fire was turned in Tuesday evening from box 13 Pickaway and Watt streets. A chimney at the home of W. H. Lathouse, 128 Watt street was on fire. The fire was caused by soot catching fire. The house was not damaged at all.

CHIEF OF POLICE AND MARSHALS GIVEN INCREASE.

Columbus, Jan. 13.—(United Press) The job of chief of police or marshal became more lucrative in Ohio today with the ruling of Attorney General Crabbe that persons holding these offices are entitled to fees paid in connection with the arrest and prosecution of state laws.

Altho this does not apply to fines it means thousands of dollars to arresting officers for the average fee, usually listed as "costs" amounts to six dollars in ordinary cases and runs around ten dollars in liquor cases.

Many officers make dozens of arrests a day.

The ruling follows a similar decision relative to Ohio mayors handed down recently by the state supreme court.

In addition to the increases of incomes which will follow Crabbe's ruling it is pointed out that these local officials also are entitled to fees in local ordinary cases if their city councils so rule.

If the officers affected by the ruling desire to sue to recover their fees in such cases it would cause a severe financial strain on many local treasuries. Such suits could go back six years.

FARM BUREAU IS NO LONGER EXPERIMENT

Year's Work Will be Reviewed at Annual Meeting in This City Thursday, January 22.

The Pickaway Farm bureau has just closed the most successful and satisfactory year since its organization. The purpose and intent is now being better understood and appreciated, not only by the farmers themselves, but by most of the business interests of the county. The Farm bureau is no longer an experiment and supported thru promises of service, but it is now an established organization and it is supported because of services already given.

At the annual meeting, January 22, a review of the year's work will be given in a concise and unique manner. Tangible evidence of the success will be given to members and cooperators in the form of cash dividends of all affiliated commodity organizations. These cash dividends will be far in excess of all membership fees paid into the Farm bureau in 1924.

The amount of each member's cash dividend will be dependent upon the extent of the patronage and cooperation given to the various commodity organizations by each member. These cash dividends are evidence of good business management on the part of directors and also a good volume of business from the cooperators. The cooperation and support of all affiliated commodity organizations and members have made our success possible.

Many other county farm bureaus and the officials of the State Farm Bureau federation are watching very closely our progress and our successful operations.

At the annual meeting of the National Farm Bureau federation at Chicago, the achievements of the Pickaway County Farm Bureau were discussed and were looked upon very favorably by the delegates of this large convention.

RESBYTERIAN BROTHERHOOD.

Eugenics and Indians, were the two interesting subjects that an audience had the pleasure of listening to at the Presbyterian church Tuesday evening. Dr. C. J. Smith, of Portland, Oregon, a member of the state board of Eugenics, told how they improved the conditions of the human race by scientific means on the Pacific coast. The idea is a new one and was an eye opener and showed how the people of Oregon was far in advance of the effete eastern states, where we are supposed to be leaders. The speaker also gave us an insight into the Indians of the Pacific slope and he also described their physical condition today.

C. D. Closson was a business visitor in Columbus today.

DIRECTORS AND OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

At Annual Meeting of Stockholders of the Three National Banks, Tuesday Evening.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the three National banks of this city held Tuesday for the purpose of electing a board of directors and also officers of the bank for the ensuing year, The Second and Third National banks elected both of their board of directors and their officers. The First National bank elected only their board of directors. At a future meeting this bank will elect the officers.

First National Bank.

RECEIVERS

And Attorneys of Mykrantz Drug Company Receive $5000 Each.

Receivers of the Mykrantz Co., Hollings subsidiary, received $5000 and their attorneys a similar amount by a court entry of the Franklin county common pleas judge.

The Mykrantz Co., which operated 19 drug stores in Columbus and a half dozen in neighboring cities, was sold recently to Morris Resler for $125,000.

The concern had been in the hands of receivers for about 18 months, or since the crash of the parent Hollings Co. A majority of the stores have been operated at a profit by the receivers. It is understood. No report has been made as to how much, if any, funds will remain to distribution to stockholders after creditors have been paid.

The Mykrantz Drug company operated a store in this city for ten years.

Eskimo's Marriage Fixed in Infancy

New York.—Shortly after an Eskimo baby is born it is promised by its parents to the little child of some of their friends or neighbors held in high esteem. This pledge is mutually binding and hardly ever disregarded, so that an Eskimo's destiny as to wedded life is settled from the beginning, says Christian Leden.

By sixteen or seventeen the Eskimo girl has reached maturity, and then she prepares for herself her first long-headed coat, or amaut, the kind her mother wears. This is a sign to her affianced sweetheart she is ready to marry. Perhaps he is away at the time, but word reaches him of her step, so he starts forth to claim her.

As a matter of form he shows little impatience in getting to her. He does not tell his errand to anyone, and out of courtesy no one mentions it to him, but the purpose of his journey is thoroughly understood.

A Book Ledger

I got my most definite literary stimulus from my father, who continually managed to inculcate in me an interest in good books. On my last visit home I found put away in a safety deposit box a ledger which shows he presented it to me on my eleventh birthday, and in which he had written the request that I should note the name of every book I read and with a brief review tell the impression it made on me. I faithfully kept up that record until I was through college. As I looked over it the other day, re-reading the boyish scrawls on the earlier pages, I found in an elaborate discussion of "Scottish Chiefs" the beginning of a taste, literary or otherwise—but anyway for reading—that has still endured.—Will H. Hays, in Hearst's International.

His Walk in Life

Worried Mother—I'm sure I don't know what we'll ever do with Harold when he grows up, John. Did you ever see such impossibly long legs? "Don't worry, my dear. Perhaps we can let him out to realtors to prove that their houses are within easy walking distance of the station."—Life.

Not That Kind

"I fancy you are a typical Arkansan, don't you know?" said the spectacled tourist. "Wall, any by-gosh time you figger that I'm typical," grimly replied Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, "you just try to tip me over and—ptu—find out."—Kansas City Star.

Big City Market Is Now Rat-Free

Department of Agriculture Carries Out Successful Raid in Washington.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

As a result of control measures quietly inaugurated by the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture, Center market, in Washington, has been made one of the most satisfactory markets from the standpoint of rat-free conditions in the country. When the department took over the management of this great city market, which covers an area equal to two city blocks, the place was found to be badly infested by rats, here was not only loss in food products, but also danger to public health through contamination of foods.

Barium Carbonate Used.

So serious was the infestation that some who had noticed conditions hesitated to purchase their food supplies there. To clear up the situation without unduly disturbing the public, the biological survey, co-operating with the bureau of agricultural economics, began work very inconspicuously. Barium carbonate was distributed under carefully controlled conditions and 300 rats were found killed at one time. Traps were also used on a large scale. Accumulated rubbish was cleared away, infested hollow walls and other structures were replaced by rat-proof construction, more sanitary and rat-proof booths were built of concrete, and a large incinerator was installed to consume garbage and rubbish.

Conditions Improved.

Special attention was given to rat proofing food-storage places, including all cold storage. The interest of the dealers was enlisted in the effort, and many neighboring commission houses, at their request, were assisted and have adopted measures recommended for the protection of the food products which they handle. While the market is still subject to invasion by rats from surrounding property and through introduction with shipments of food, necessitating careful follow-up work, conditions have been vastly improved, and the market is a valuable example of what can be accomplished when proper effort is made.

Roup May Be Controlled by Proper Management

Contagious roup is very easily spread from one bird to another by contact through the feed, water and litter. Roup is easily controlled by proper management and housing. Damp, insanitary, poorly ventilated, overcrowded drafty quarters are conducive to its spread. Only valuable birds should receive individual treatment. Place the bird in a dry, well-ventilated place and give it plenty of fresh air and feed. Every morning and evening remove all the cheesy matter from the eyes and nostrils of the bird and dip its head into a solution of bichloride of mercury (1-1,000). This is made by placing one 7.3-grain bichloride of mercury tablet in a pint of water. Hold the bird firmly and immerse the head until the eyes are covered, keeping it there a few seconds, or until it struggles.

In treating an infected flock, dispose of all bad cases by killing and burning them. Isolate all birds having colds keep quarters dry, provide plenty of ventilation without drafts, sunlight and avoid overcrowding. Place one 7.3-grain bichloride of mercury tablet in a gallon of water in a nonmetal container. Never use more than ten days in succession.

Different Rations That Have Got Good Results

Farmers who have good alfalfa hay find that a ration mixed from 50¢ pounds ground corn, 200 pounds ground oats, 200 pounds wheat bran and 10¢ pounds linseed oilmeal, cottonseed meal or soy bean meal gives excellent results.

When clover hay is used in place of alfalfa, the oilmeal is increased to 20¢ pounds. If mixed hay is the only kind a man has, he cuts the corn to 40¢ pounds and increases the oats to 30¢ pounds and the oilmeal to 200 pounds. The same amount of bran, 200 pounds, is used.

In a very few cases where it is out of the question to secure anything but timothy hay, the above ration is mixed in equal parts by weight. C. B. Finley, dairy extension man at the Iowa State college, found in his experience with over 5,000 farmers last year, that good results were always obtained from the above combinations.

Work of Busy Bee

"How doth the busy little bee," has been spoken thousands of times by school children and others without a single thought as to the important part that the busy little bee plays in the development of many of our plants. Bees serve a double purpose. They gather the sweets from the flowers and store them and at the same time they perform a greater service in carrying the pollen from one flower to another, thus insuring a full set of fruit upon our trees and certain of our vegetable plants.

Biblical "Prophets."

The numerous "prophets" of the Bible were not persons who foretold the future, but in the original the word means story writer. It will be found by a short examination that this is true.

Stones for Rosaries.
The rosaries sold at Kandahar are extensively manufactured from soft, crystallized silicate of magnesia. This is quarried from a hill about thirty miles northwest of the city, where soapstone and antimony are also obtained in considerable abundance. The stone varies in color from a light yellow to a bluish white, and is generally opaque.

SAILORS HAVE FIRM BELIEF IN OMENS

Deep Sea Seems to Breed Quaint Superstitions.

There is no place in the world where superstition is so powerful as on the sea. R. Barry O'Brien, writing in the Washington Post, asserts.

Let an absent-minded sailor whistle on board ship and his mates will curse him for bringing on a stiff breeze when it is not wanted.

But for a sailor to whistle when the ship is enveloped in dense fog is permissible, since the occult wind may disperse the very material fog.

Until comparatively recently, under no circumstances, was a young steamship-trained helmsman allowed to mount the "weather side of the bridge."

This privilege was reserved for old shellbacks who had been seven times round Cape Horn. But as few seamen can claim such distinction in these days of "iron ships and wooden men" the "leeside" is now universally used.

Parsons are never popular afloat. They are supposed to bring bad luck, and are therefore blamed by the crew for any misfortune that occurs.

Seamen no longer believe that rats leave an ill-fated ship before she sails. But they still regard the arrival of a corpse for shipment as a very bad omen, and I have known them to desert sooner than sail with it.

Strangely enough, the extent of their apprehension on this account varies with the social standing of the deceased, the remains of a celebrity being more unlucky than those of a humble citizen.

So strong was this superstition in bygone days that the packing case containing the casket had to be labeled and stowed as ordinary cargo.

The luck of black cats is proverbial. But what is not so well known is the reason why seamen are so over-indulgent in them. This is to prevent their bringing ill-luck to the ship by running away.

During the war black cats were at a premium. With so much extra tonnage afloat there was not enough to go around.

Sometimes a young midshipman would be sent ashore in search of one. And a certain youth, sooner than return empty-handed, dyed the white patches of a black and white "stray" with ink.

Those Smart Children

"My three-year-old nephew Anaximander, hurried breathlessly into the living room where we were entertaining the minister and his wife.

"Mamma!" he cried without regard for consequences, "Bruvver's gone and torn his rubber rompers and now you'll have to vulcanize them."

Little Willie, my eighteen-month-old cousin, was earnestly watching his father (my uncle) repair his automobile.

"What seems to be the matter?" he finally asked his dad.

"I'm afraid the differential's gone wrong," said his daddy, wiping the grease off his forehead with his $8 silk shirt.

"Heck!" ejaculated Willie. "A fellow's got to understand calculus to run a car these days!"

Ermytrude is a trifle precocious and for that reason her parents temporize with her.

At the dinner table the other night she brusquely asked her mother to pass the mustard.

Mother smiled wearily and said expectantly, "If you—?"

Imagine our embarrassment when the little darling retorted, "If you know what's good for you!"—Roswell J. Powers in Judge.

Dead Spots at Sea

While we have come to accept "dead spots" on land, there is another form of "dead spot" to be found right in mid-ocean, hundreds of miles from land, for which no adequate explanation has yet been given, according to A. Dinsdale, member of the Radio Society of Great Britain. Some scientists maintain that they are caused by large mineral deposits on the ocean floor, but this explanation hardly seems satisfactory, though it is true that such dead spots can also be overcome by increasing the wavelength for communication. There are several such spots in the different oceans, and they cause quite an amount of inconvenience to ships at times, although the study of them is interesting.—Scientific American.

Something New in History

She was proud of her kindergarten class and was anxious to show off the little ones to a number of visiting mothers.

"Who discovered America?" the teacher asked.

"Columbia," shouted a little girl, easily beating her classmates to the answer.

Overlooking the error, the teacher went on:

"And what was his first name?"

"Hall," was the quick reply that sent teacher and mother into spasms of laughter.

Stars in Pairs

There are many stars that are double, says Nature Magazine—that is, they are made up of stars revolving around one another. Most of these pairs are of contrasting color, one blue and the other gold, or one red and the other green. Albireo is considered to be one of the finest of the pairs that are visible in small telescopes.

Brown Chiffon Velvet Trimmed With Kolinsky

Showing luxuriously trimmed costume suit of brown chiffon velvet, with kolinsky trimming. It is a three-piece affair. The bodice is heavily embroidered in gold and red.

Double-Breasted Coat—Four or Six Buttons

The overcoat of the moment is one that can be used with equal success as a morning town wrap or as a useful garment to slip on after a round of golf, says a Paris fashion writer in the New York Herald. It is cut on the lines of a man's overcoat, double-breasted with four or six buttons, slit up the back, either plain or with a two-inch belt just across the back to the side seams. This is made in fancy English suitings and tweeds and is principally seen in shades of brown, pepper-and-salt or beige.

Attractive and likely to attain a real vogue are the little sports suits shown by Yteb in her midseason opening of winter fashions. Made of all kinds of warm woolen fabrics, mostly with a rough surface, they have short little straight jumpers that leave off abruptly just below the normal waistline. They have a wide hem at the bottom on which is placed a line of small buttons at the center front. These buttons are carried on straight down the center of the skirt, which has its inverted knife plaiting in the front on either side of the row of buttons, giving a line that is new, practical and very effective.

The jumper type of sports costume is often turned into a three-piece by the addition of a shoulder cape reaching to about the base of the hip line, fastening with a narrow cross-over double strap underneath. Straight little jackets, too, are often worn, made of the same material as the skirt which may be of tweed, duvetyn or kasha.

After a long vogue for the group of narrow knife plaits at the side to give fullness, the new sports skirts are made in wrap-over envelope fashion with only one wide plait at the side. For the woman who drives her own car these skirts are made with wide box plaits in front, stitched down for some six inches from the waist and then left free. This is a very practical mode and is becoming as well.

Peaked Crown Becoming to Majority of Women

There are so many different variations of the peaked crown that it is becoming to practically all types; for instance, there is the four-dented crown tip and the three-dented tip, the creased or helmet ridge that runs from side to side or from back to front, or the ridge that is turned over in quite a roll from one side to the other, or from the back to the front.

The peaked or pointed tip is more suitable to the young person. The helmet ridge type which runs from side to side, no matter in what way it is accomplished, is better for the older woman with the heavier type face, for it gives her the width that is so necessary for the stouter and larger face.

Blue for Evening Wear Is Much in Limelight

Smart coats of velvet of various cloths trimmed with light-colored fox, are features of the mode. White foxes dyed light blue, or a wheat shade known as ble are also used on these coats.

Evening gowns are mostly of velvet or chiffon, heavily embroidered with beads, and revealing much use of gold and silver combinations. Almost all shades of blue are expressed in gowns for formal wear.

A broadtail wrap made with a short cape effect was completed with a small felt hat of light blue, having a crystal and rhinestone pin as its only ornament.

Seams Important

The underarm seams of tailored frocks have become important as the point where tailored decorations, usually buttons, are introduced.

Seek Breeding Spot of African Locust Plagues

Alexandria, Egypt.—An expedition into the Kufshar desert has been organized by the South African government to discover the breeding places of the locusts that come forth in the summer and swarm over the farms of South Africa, destroying everything in their wake.

It is hoped eventually to send a small army into this desert, armed with sprayers and equipment for killing the pest. Some members of the expedition visited the kraal of the Barokene tribe, 200 miles within the desert, and were received by the native chief and his wife, both dressed in the European fashion and speaking English.

Among these natives they found a group of fifty white men and women serving in menial capacities. They are the descendants of nomadic for-bears, who trekked from the cape, only to settle among the Barokene natives, whose workmen to all intents and purposes they have become.

Being white, by the laws of the country they are denied pastoral and agricultural privileges, and now seem to have lost all initiative to move out and re-establish themselves in a white community.

Lipton Picks Prisoner to Command His Yacht

Toronto.—Sir Thomas Lipton went to the jail farm and after a chat with Amelius Jarvis, Sr., a prisoner there, announced he had found the man to command the Lipton yacht which, in 1926, will challenge America to defend the America's cup in another of the races off Sandy Hook.

Jarvis is a noted Canadian yachtsman and an old crony of Sir Thomas'. He is serving six months for conspiracy to defraud the province in a sale of bonds.

For two hours the famous tea merchant and the prisoner enjoyed each other's company at the farm. Sir Thomas made positive announcement afterward that he would challenge America's hold on the international trophy in 1926 and that he had Jarvis' promise to serve as skipper of the challenger.

The yachtsmen also virtually decided that a craft of the schooner class would be built to oppose the American defender, said Sir Thomas. Incidentally, he said nothing could convince him that his old friend Jarvis was guilty of the offense for which he was serving time.

Have Good Light.

If you work at night be sure that you have a good light. Arc lights, because of their glaring rays, are exceedingly injurious. A shaded light is the best substitute at night for diffused daylight. The electric bulbs should either have a dome or a dark paper shade. A gas light composed of mantle and bulb produces a good, diffused light and when placed high enough near the ceiling does not injure the eyes.

Builds Shaft to Honor

Adam, "the First Man"

Baltimore, Md.—To make up for the neglect of the human race properly to commemorate the progenitor of all people, John P. Brady has taken it upon himself to erect a monument to Adam, the first man.

Mr. Brady's hope is that it may be the mecca of pilgrims from near, if not from far, annually on the natal day of the historic character in whose honor it has been erected.

According to Mr. Brady's calendar, Adam was born October 28, in the year 404 B. C. Every year since he built the memorial in 1900 it has been the custom of Mr. Brady to journey to the monument on Adam's birthday to lay a wreath on it and to hold with such of his friends and admirers as might attend, a sort of Memorial day service. This year Mr. Brady's poor health has made it impossible for him to pay his annual tribute to his original ancestor.

The monument is a plain stone shaft, impressive in simplicity, surmounted by a sundial. The inscription says in bold letters:

THIS, THE FIRST
SHAFT IN AMERICA
IS DEDICATED TO

SURVEY IS MADE OF BIRD BANDING

Terns Migrate From Kennebec to the Niger.

Washington.—From the banks of the Kennebec to those of the Niger—that is the journey accredited to a common term by the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture, which is now receiving many interesting returns from the bird-banding work at one of its bird colonies in Lake Michigan last year. Among the other interesting reports growing out of this work are those pertaining to three Caspian terns, which were located in Colombia, South America. These were found just at the time when bird banding was being done at the original colony in Michigan this year, thereby proving that the young birds do not breed in their first year.

According to the agricultural experimenters two Caspian terns were reported found in Nova Scotia and many others were discovered along the routes to the latter country and South America. Those found en route, the investigators say, show what course is followed by the migrating birds between their summer and winter homes.

With the growing interest in the procedure the department has only recently published a list of instructions concerning the practical significance of bird banding, as well as some of its history. This form of identification in America dates from the time of Audubon, who about 1803 placed silver threads around the legs of a brood of phoebes and was rewarded the following season by having two of his marked birds return to nest in the same vicinity. Although bird "ringing" was attempted in Europe as early as 1770 it was almost 200 years later, in 1899, that systematic work was undertaken.

Started in 1901.

The earlier investigators, according to the recent report, marked their birds by dyeing or staining the flight or tail feathers, attaching memoranda written on parchment, or mutilating feathers, feet or bill. In this country active experimental work was begun in 1901, when aluminum bands were attached to the legs of the birds. The results were so satisfactory and stimulated so much interest that eight years later the American Bird Banding association was organized in New York city. Subsequent study has revealed that two principal lines of research must be given special attention. First of these is the banding of fledglings and the second, the systematic trapping and banding of adults. The latter is the more significant because the older birds give the most information on bird habits.

Trapping is accomplished by various snares, one of the popular ones being the "Government" sparrow trap, a funnel-shaped device of wire and hardware cloth easily made even by the novice and very effective. Others which the department recommends are the well-known drop trap, the door of which is suspended until the unwary bird makes for the bait, when it drops down and shuts in the victim.

The department, to be able to study even more closely than heretofore the life histories of birds, urgently requests the co-operation of naturalists whose casual discoveries of wayfaring hand-bearing birds might be well worth reporting. In this way the governmental investigators expect to solve the many problems which previously have baffled the ornithologist. Among these are the speed with which individuals of any species may travel on their periodic migrations, the possible vanguard formed by one flock for others and the advance made by successive flocks passing one over the other in alternate periods of rest and flight.

Questions to Be Answered.

Other questions which can be answered by bird-banding operations are:

Do individuals of any species always follow the same route, and is the route the same for both spring and fall flights?

Do migrating birds make the same stop-over every year to feed?

How long do birds remain in one locality during the migration, the breeding or the winter season?

What is the relation between the breeding and the wintering grounds of individuals; that is, do those birds that breed farthest north winter farthest south, thus jumping over those that occupy the intermediate zone, or do they merely replace the latter individuals as winter residents?

To what region do the birds go, particularly the young, that do not return to the vicinity of their original nests?

Do birds adopt the same nesting area, nest site and winter quarters in successive seasons?

For how many broods will one pair remain mated, and which bird, if not both, is attracted next year to the old nesting site?

To what extent do males of a species assist in incubation and brooding?

How far from their nests do birds forage for food, and after the young have left the nest will the parent birds bring them to the feeding and trapping station?

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

Taken Direct From the Wires by

Correspondents of United States Press Association.

Canton, O., Jan. 14.—(United Press) Helen Spriggle, 11, and Leonard Spriggle, 4, were burned to death this morning when fire destroyed the home of their grandfather, Frank Spriggle at Meyers station near here.

The grandfather had left for work after building a fire in the kitchen stove. The other members of the family were in bed. A neighbor discovered the fire and aroused the family. Newton Spriggle, father of the children and a widower, jumped from the upstairs window. Flames prevented him from reaching the children and they were burned to death in their room.

Melmore, O., Jan. 14.—(United Press)—Mr. and Mrs. George L. Myers 60, were burned severely when fire, starting when a can of coal oil exploded as Myers was building a fire in the furnace, destroyed their home today.

His clothing aflame, Myers rushed out of the basement and plunged into a snowbank. He then collapsed.

Mrs. Myers escaped unhurt immediately following the explosion but was burned badly when she returned to save some money she had left in the house.

Marion, O. Jan. 14.—(United Press) Warren G. Harding, II, nephew of the late president, has gone to sea. Harding, 19, is now a purser on the Steamship Marengo, and is bound for Malta.

The post was given him by Henry Herberman, president of the company operative the Marengo and a close friend of the late president.

THIS TAILOR

Charges By the Year and Keeps You Fashionably Clad.

A new idea for ending man's clothing troubles appears in this week's issue of the weekly magazine, Liberty. It is the idea of a Minneapolis tailor, who, according to Liberty, enjoys the distinction of having the best dressed clientele among men of moderate means of anybody in the Minnesota metropolis.

"This man," says the Liberty account, "evolved the idea of a budget system for men, and today he figures a clothes budget for hundreds of men, notifies them when they need a suit or overcoat, and makes the garments for them."

"Meeting a new customer, the tailor inquires just how much money his patron wants to spend during the year for clothing. Whether the customer says $100 or $1,000 makes no difference. The tailor examines his patron's wardrobe, calculates what is needed, and so advises him. He plans usually a heavy overcoat one season, a light one for the next. If the budget is small, he prefers one good overcoat and one good light or heavy suit each year to one overcoat and two suits."

"In addition to making the clothes and arranging the budgets for his customers, this ingenious tailor takes care of the clothing. If he meets a customer wearing trousers out of shape and wrinkled coat, he calls him to time and insists upon pressing and fixing up the garment."

AMUSEMENTS

An hour and a half of worth-while entertainment is wrapped up in Pola Negri's latest Paramount picture "Lily of the Dust," which had its premiere last night at the Met theater. The colorful atmosphere, the lavish backgrounds and settings, the capable direction and the superb acting of Miss Negri, ably supported by a powerful cast, combine to make this photoplay one of the outstanding hits of the season.

There is no doubt in our minds but that Dimitri Buchowetzki who produced the screen play is the ideal director for Pola. He appears to understand her temperament and the result is that under his sympathetic eye, Miss Negri rises to heights of acting seldom equalled on the screen. The other acting honors fall to the lot of Noah Beery, Ben Lyon and Raymond Griffith.

Paul Bern is responsible for the adaptation which was taken from a story by Hermann Sudermann and a play by Edward Sheldon. It deals with the trials and tribulations of a poor, but pretty girl who, after many hectic love adventures, finds peace and happiness.

GOV. DONAHEY

Says He Was Inspired As a Youth By McGuffey's Readers.

(United Press.)
Columbus, Jan. 14.—Governor Donahey was inspired as a youth by McGuffey's readers, he told a correspondent.

Judge Carrington T. Marshall, chief justice of the Ohio Supreme Court, said the one book making the greatest impression on him in his youth was a "correlation of Professor McGuffey known as the Sixth Reader."

"I learned to read in the McGuffey first and second readers before I started to school," said the governor. "I have never forgotten them. They inspired me and gave me ideals. They are made up of great literature. I can quote from all of them now."

"It contains selections from the world's finest classics," said the chief justice. Justice Marshall can also recite from the readers.

Caledonian Art

At pottery the Caledonians could not compare with the Romans, since the potter's wheel seems to have been unknown amongst them. But they almost excelled the "masters of the world" in their ornaments. The mountains yielded their craftsmen gold, silver, bronze, amber, rubies and rock crystals such as agate, jasper and cairngorms and jet. From these they made ornaments and weapons.

Madame Le Brun

Mme. Le Brun was a French painter who gained considerable reputation in Paris. Her paintings, historical pieces as well as portraits, were exhibited in the Louvre. Mme. de Genlis speaks of the talents of Mme. Le Brun with much warmth of praise, and complains that the men "sought to depreciate her paintings because she was a woman."—Chicago Journal.

MAY USE PIGEONS TO DIRECT ARTILLERY FIRE

Army Signal Corps Considers Using Birds to Carry Messages to Lines.

Washington.—Possible extensive use of pigeons in directing artillery fire is engaging the attention of the signal corps of the army.

Observers in advancing positions release the birds, carrying messages telling where the shells are falling, and they are trained to fly back to the lines. This method would be used when other channels of communication, such as radio or telephones, were not available. The Germans utilized pigeons to direct artillery fire on the eastern front during the World war.

There are now 1,500 birds at various posts, in the keeping of the signal corps, which has a breeding center for them at Camp Vall, N. J. The birds are retained at the various army corps area headquarters, in the insular possessions and in Panama.

It takes from ten days to two weeks, officers say, to train a pigeon to return to its loft and get its bearings. Pigeons do not fly well at night and as a rule are not outstanding in intelligence. Difficulty has been experienced with pigeon fanciers in the army, who wish to make pigeons a major method of communication.

Only one bird in ten is considered capable of flying 500 miles in one day.

In the canal zone hawks constantly menace pigeons while in flight. To overcome this a whistle is fastened to the tail of the bird, and as it flies the rush of air causes the whistle to sound and frightens away birds of prey.

Quite Likely

"Ah! What picturesque scenery you have here!" rhapsodized a motorist who had stopped for a drink of water. "How sublime are those hills! How—Great Scott! Look at that little boy playing with a revolver! Is it loaded?"

"I reckon so," replied Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge.

"My heavens! Don't you know that a child of that age hasn't sense enough to handle a loaded revolver, and—"

"Aw, he's got as much sense about handling a weepin as I—yaw-w-wa!—have."—Kansas City Star.

Pays After 40 Years

Pattonburg, Mo.—Forty years ago George N. Gromer lent $50 to a friend for a short period, but the man left the neighborhood before he repaid the loan. Several days ago Gromer received a letter in which was a check for $200. It came from the man who had asked the loan of the $50. The debtor said he had become prosperous and wanted to liquidate the obligation.

WIFE RESENTS HIS AGE; HE ADOPTS HER

Court Approves Plan and Grants Legal Papers.

St. Joseph, Mo.—Hans C. Arentzen and Elizabeth I. Arentzen did not find the relations as husband and wife congenial—at least Elizabeth didn't—so they entered into an agreement to be divorced. Hans is old enough to be Elizabeth's grandfather, and she is not yet out of her twenties.

The conjugal state had existed several years when the young wife applied to the Circuit court last week for a decree of divorce, and Judge William H. Utz granted the petition. The Arentzens were married in Savannah, Mo., in 1921, and have lived together in St. Joseph ever since.

Arentzen, who is caretaker of a local church, has reached that stage of life when men of frugal habits prefer their pipe and a seat at the bedside to the moving picture show or the dance hall. Mrs. Arentzen has not yet passed the age at which many women experience tender emotions at the view of the sheik of the cinema, and find the syncopation of the fox trot and the two step simply irresistible.

Longed for Young Friends.

Also she found an old-fashioned man who was entirely satisfied with three meals a day and a soft bed beyond endurance. She longed for association with persons nearer her own age, with tastes conforming more closely to her own. So she told her husband.

Arentzen loved his wife and he could not bear to entirely give her up. He feared if she were left to her own way evil or misfortune might overtake her. He was willing to release her from the obligation of wife, but wanted her companionship in the home. He had accumulated some property and wished her to have the benefit of it if she should outlive him, which he conceded to be more than probable. They laid the case before Judge William K. Amick, a former Circuit judge who is noted for his success in adjusting differences between married people, and he advised a divorce, to be followed by the adoption by Arentzen of Mrs. Arentzen as his daughter.

Judge Amick's suggestion met with the instant favor of Mr. and Mrs. Arentzen. The wife's petition for divorce was promptly granted, as the husband did not answer in court. There was no prayer for alimony and no stipulations of any kind. A few days later the divorced couple went into court with their attorney to ask that the ex-wife be made the legally adopted daughter and heir of her former husband, which was done.

Adopted as Daughter.

It was explained to the court that Arentzen still loved his former wife, but realized the disparity in their ages made it impossible for her to hold him in wifely affection. Furthermore, he needed a housekeeper and Mrs. Arentzen needed a home and a guardian. He has no near relatives and wished to make her his heir.

Mrs. Arentzen continues to keep the Arentzen home in order, her status simply being changed from wife to daughter. Neighbors say she is even more solicitous of the comfort of Mr. Arentzen as daughter than she was as wife. She is privileged to receive such company as she wishes, and it is noticeable that callers at the house are of a much younger set than they were when she was a married woman. Friends of the two say they seem happy under the new arrangement and none have been heard to disapprove of it.

Primitive Matches

Early matches were called lucifers, and a match that would ignite by means of friction was invented by a man named Walker, of Stockton-on-Tees, England, in 1829. In March, 1842, Reuben Partridge took out a British patent for a machine for manufacturing the splints. All these early matches depended upon phosphorus for their lighting by means of friction. Safety matches were first brought out in 1862.

$7,000,000 Botanical Garden for New York

New York.—The board of managers of the New York botanical garden announced a development program involving an ultimate outlay of $7,000,000 and designed to make the institution a model for the world.

The plans involve endowment, equipment, maintenance and research, according to the board's statement, issued by its president, Dr. Frederick S. Lee, research professor of physiology of Columbia university.

"The more urgent needs demand $4,000,000; of which $800,000 should be expended for material improvements and equipment endowment," said Doctor Lee.

"The board of managers is making an effort to obtain this needed $4,000,000 and confidently looks to the people of New York to contribute it."

ANCIENT RELICS TO BELONG TO MUSEUM

Fine Archeological Collection for Houston, Texas.

One of the largest and most interesting archeological collections in the Southwest is that of Prof. W. F. Cummins, oil geologist for the Southern Pacific railroad. Professor Cummins has announced his intention of presenting this wonderful collection of ancient relics to the Houston museum. It consists of several hundred stone and clay images which he found in the Maya ruins in Yucatan, Mexico, and many strange objects which he unearthed in exploring prehistoric mounds in Missouri.

One specimen is a sacred image carved in stone, found nearly forty years ago in a Missouri mound, pronounced by expert geologists of the government not only genuine, but the finest specimen ever found from the mounds and cumuli of the prehistoric civilized race of the United States, probably thousands of years old. Professor Cummins refused an offer of $5,000 for it, or for a cast of it, from a government scientific institution. But he kept it as the only one of its kind for presentation to the Houston museum.

The workmanship of this stone image is perfect, requiring high artistic skill in conception and execution, indicating that an advanced degree of civilization had been reached, as well as a knowledge of species of animals that have not existed for thousands of years on this continent.

The image has the beak of an eagle, the horn of a rhinoceros, the feet of an elephant, the shell of a tortoise, the flippers of a seal and the tail of a Gila monster, also the wings of a grasshopper or locust. It is stained with a brown pigment of some unknown substance, and when discovered was incased in red clay. It is carved from a fine-grained hard white limestone, is 38 inches long and weighs 68 pounds. When found a small creek had cut away part of the mound, leaving some of the image exposed. It has been in Professor Cummins' possession since 1885.

As the ancients of central Asia had the tradition of the Noachian deluge, destroying the most of the world, so also the ancient American races had a similar tradition. Having suffered from great destruction of vegetation in what are now some of the western states, their tradition was that the world was destroyed by swarms of grasshoppers. This image commemorates the destruction of the world by grasshoppers, according to Professor Cummins.

Notin's Never Perfect.

Lesson for January 18

THE LAST SUPPER

LESSON TEXT—Luke 22:7-30.
GOLDEN TEXT—"This is My body which is given for you: this do in remembrance of Me."—Luke 22:19.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Lord's Supper.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Meaning of the Communion Service.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Communion With Jesus Christ.

I. The Passover Prepared (vv. 7-13).

1. The Disciples' Inquiry (vv. 7-9). They inquired of Jesus as to where they should prepare for the Passover. They no doubt were anxious to be of service to Him.

2. The Master's Strange Directions (vv. 10-12). They were to go into the city where they would meet a man bearing a pitcher of water. He assured them that they would then be shown a large upper room furnished.

3. The Obedience of the Disciples (v. 13). They did not stop to question the sanity of the command but like true disciples obeyed. Jesus, because He is omniscient, knew just how the matter would turn out.

II. The Passover Eaten (vv. 14-18).

1. By Whom (v. 14)? Those who sat down to this last Passover feast were the Master and the Twelve Apostles.

2. His Words Unto Them (vv. 15-18).

(1) "I have desired to eat this passover with you before I suffer." How anxious He was to show them the meaning of the passion through which He was to go; also He craved their human sympathy as He passed through this trying ordeal.

(2) "I will not any more eat thereof, until it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God." His death was the antitypical fulfillment of the passover meal. He looked forward to that time when the process of redemption would have been completed and a perfect union between the disciples and the Lord would be consummated.

(3) "Take this cup and divide it among yourselves." The disciples were now partaking of that symbol of His blood. He assured them that He would not again drink of the fruit of the vine until the kingdom of God should come. Drinking anew in the kingdom does not mean that in heaven this service will be renewed, but that this was symbolic of the heavenly reality.

III. The Feast of the New Covenant Instituted (vv. 19-20).

This took place at the close of the paschal supper.

1. The Bread, a Symbol of Christ's Body (v. 19). Christ giving of Himself to them. In order to get benefit from physical bread it is necessary to receive it. In order to get benefit from Christ one must receive Him.

2. The Cup, a Symbol of Christ's Blood (v. 20). This was symbolic of the atonement which was made by the shedding of His blood on the cross. He said: "This cup is the new testament in My blood which was shed for you," indicating that each one must personally accept the atonement made by the shedding of His blood.

IV. The Wicked Behaviour at the Feast (vv. 21-27).

1. The Treachery of Judas (vv. 21-23).

(1) The time of its manifestation (v. 21). It was while they were eating the last passover that Jesus made the announcement of the betrayal. Perhaps the reason why this feast was disturbed by such an announcement was that Judas might be given an opportunity at this last moment to repent.

(2) The betrayal was by the determined counsel of God (v. 22—cf. Acts 2:23). Nothing takes place by chance. Even the evil, sinful acts of men come within the permissive providence of God, but this does not lessen the guilt for Jesus says: "Woe unto the man by whom He is betrayed."

(3) Sorrowful question (v. 23). The disciples did not seem to suspect one another, but made the question a personal one.

2. Selfish Ambition of the Disciples (vv. 24-27). In this tragic hour the disciples were so concerned with the thought of honorable position that they were striving among themselves as to who should be greatest.

V. The Apostles' Place in the Kingdom (vv. 28-30).

He assures them that those who continue with Him in His trials shall be appointed unto a place in the kingdom which will entitle them to eat and drink at His table and sit on thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

Seeing Beacon Lights

As a Christian grows old, he should be able to see the beacon lights while yet far at sea.—American Evangelist.

Expect the Best, and Get It

By J. R. McCARTHY

(© by Western Newspaper Union.)

JOHN SIMMONS knew that he was losing out with Lucille Bergen. There was no startling, definite reason why he should lose her. But he "felt it in his bones."

Lucille Bergen had begun to drift away from him, he knew, even before that infernal egotist, Edwin Story, began to pay attention to her. And when Story, with his loud self-confidence, finally persuaded Lucille to go to a dance with him on a Thursday night—which had always been John's night—John saw his fears coming true.

Walking through the park that afternoon John tried to get a new sneaking premonition out of his head. It would be a tragedy to lose his job, especially, now when he was making an effort to secure an important position as head of the art department in a big new firm.

Suddenly he heard a loud, cheerful voice, followed by the trill of laughter. He knew so well. Edwin Story, telling a hearty joke, and Lucille Bergen, laughing. Before John could step aside, the two came around a bend in the path and confronted him.

"Hello, John!" they called in unison.

"Good afternoon."

"Ed was just telling me," said Lucille, "that he is going to get a big job as head of a commercial art department. Imagine! And he knows practically nothing about the work. Isn't that a joke?"

John's effort at laughter wasn't very successful.

"Laugh all you please," announced that confident fellow. "I don't know anything about art, but I know people."

Lucille laughed again. Then she turned to John and asked him deliberately, "Why don't you try for the job? You are a real artist."

John brightened for an instant. "Why," he said, "I have my application in."

"There!" Lucille turned to Edwin Story triumphantly. "I told you so. You'll have a fine chance to land that job with a real commercial artist in competition!"

"You just wait and see," said Story. "All right, we'll see John here walking away with it. Won't we, John?"

"I don't know. I'm afraid, maybe—There's a lot of rivalry, you know."

A week later when he learned that his application had been turned down, John was disappointed but not greatly surprised. Somehow or other he had felt it in his bones that bad luck would meet him in this case as before. But when the daily papers announced that Edwin Story, the popular salesman, had been chosen to fill the opening, John gazed helplessly. What was the use of knowing anything? Why be a careful, serious worker when only the loud-mouthed boasters got anywhere?

Angry, discouraged, botching his work, John put in a bad Saturday morning. Leaving the office dejectedly at noon, he was almost run over by a blue roadster. As the car flashed by he recognized its occupants—Lucille and Story. They did not notice him.

Stepping back on the sidewalk, John leaned against a post. What to do? Oh, yes, lunch. He pulled his Saturday pay envelope out of his pocket. Maybe he was lucky to have even a job. He drew out several bills and a piece of paper. Opening the paper quickly, John read: "After the 24th of this month your services will no longer be required."

Fired! John Simmons moved away slowly, not knowing exactly where he was going. Fired! Presently he was in his old haunt, the park, seated on a bench. He had forgotten his lunch. Fired!

John's head was in his hands. Half hour later he pulled himself together, raised his head and looked about him.

John Simmons stirred, rose, started off in a brisk walk. Perhaps he himself was to blame. The more he thought of his past, the more convinced he became.

John Simmons smiled! It was a grim smile, but it meant a great deal. It meant that he had turned his back on thirty blue years. It meant that now with Lucille lost, chance lost, job gone, he was going to begin all over again. Hereafter he was—but there, on a bench, sat Lucille herself! John sat beside her, unasked. He didn't even wonder what had become of Story.

"Hello, Lucille, I just got fired."

"Oh!" Lucille looked up from her book. "You frightened me. But what's that? You don't mean you're really fired? Why, there's not a better commercial artist in the city. And just after you lost that big chance with the new company. It's too bad, John. I'm sorry. I've been having a fight—" she caught herself. It was only then that Lucille saw John's smile. "You are just teasing me," she said.

John's smile broadened. "No, I wasn't teasing. Here's the notice."

"But," he added, as her sympathy returned, "I think it's a mistake. I'm going over the matter with the chief on Monday, and he'll see it as I do. I'll stay on the pay roll, all right. I feel it in my bones."

Lucille's eyes widened. "Attaboy!" she applauded.

John grew serious. "Hereafter I'm going to expect the best, and see to it that I get it. I lost, I mean I almost lost my job. I lost a big chance. I lost you—"

"How do you know, John, that you lost me?"

For a full minute he looked into her eyes. Then, "By thunder!" he said, "I haven't!"

Hit by Burglar, Woman Traps Him in Closet

Philadelphia.—How Mrs. Sarah Kaufman unwittingly trapped and almost caused the death of a burglar who had felled her unconscious was revealed 15 hours after the attack. Then a closet door in the Kaufman home was opened by police and out fell the burglar nearly unconscious.

Mrs. Kaufman was passing through a room on the second floor on the way to her bedroom when she was felled by a blackjack. Police say that in falling she struck the closet door into which her assailant had darted, and closed it, the spring lock snapping.

Her husband found her unconscious and took her to the Misericordia hospital. She was able to return home the same day and was passing through the room where she had been assaulted when she heard a faint scraping noise in the closet. Going to the door she heard a faint breathing and called the police.

As the officers opened the door a youth, who later said he was Melvin Barnes, eighteen, of Galveston, Texas, fell out, almost unconscious from lack of air.

He admitted later he had broken into the house, but denied striking Mrs. Kaufman.

Buy Coffins in Advance

United States authorities recently admitted into the country as personal property a very handsome coffin brought here by a woman from Europe who, fearing death while here, wanted to be buried in a casket of her own choosing. This fact caused undertakers to reveal the fact that hundreds of eccentric persons, mostly women, had picked out their coffins in advance and they were stored awaiting call. Some are of ivory, some of cast iron and others of rarest timbers.

Has Used Over 200 Bottles in Nine Years.

Grove City, September 6, 1924.

Mr. F. L. Fickardt

Circleville, Ohio.

Dear Mr. Fickardt:—

Perhaps you do not remember the incident but about nine years ago I tried out Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops to satisfy in my own mind the truth of the statements I had heard.

I took two equal number of birds in exactly the same condition and tried out your Drops as against another Nationally advertised poultry remedy. I used both as the directions stated until I thoroughly satisfied myself that Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops were superior for the use that it is intended. Since I convinced myself that Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops were the best, I have used it exclusively on all my poultry and in all that time I have never had an epidemic of any kind. I firmly believe this is due to keeping your remedy before them all the time.

I know that I have returned more than two hundred empty bottles, but how many more I bought I can't tell. Also you do not make any claim for your remedy as an egg producer I can because I get more eggs now that I did before I used Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops. This is probably due to the fact that my chickens are always in first class condition.

My eggs and butter pay our household expenses. I would not undertake to raise poultry without Fickardt's medicine.

Sincerely,

Mrs. John R. Shelton

SAYS SUN IS OVER BILLION YEARS OLD

Princeton Astronomer Accepts Theory of Britisher.

Princeton, N. J.—Ten thousand billion years probably are no longer than the life of a star, Henry Norris Russell, head of the department of astronomy in Princeton university, said when he voiced his agreement with the theory recently advanced by Professor Eddington and Doctor Jeans, English astronomers.

"The sun has undoubtedly shone for more than a billion years," Professor Russell said. "Assuming as Professor Eddington does that matter in the interior of stars may be gradually converted into energy to supply these losses, the life of a star probably exceeds ten thousand billion years."

"Having accepted this, a serious difficulty regarding the origin of the solar system is removed. The best hypothesis so far is that which assumes that planets owe their existence to eruptions from the sun produced by the close approach of another star to the sun. This was first suggested by Professors Chamberlin and Moulton of the University of Chicago."

Professor Russell explained how it could be demonstrated that the approach of one star close enough to another to cause eruptions would be an excessively rare occurrence. If the stars have been shining for only a few hundred million years, few indeed would have planetary systems around them, he said, adding that if, as Professor Eddington suggests, the stars have existed 100,000 times longer than this, it is probable that large numbers of stars are attended by planets.

"We have no hope at present of finding out which ones are the centers of such systems, for the planets are so small in comparison with the interstellar distances that no human means of observation could detect the ones like those in our system if they revolved about even the nearest star," Professor Russell said.

"Among a large number of planetary systems there would probably be many planets which were potentially habitable, having the proper temperature and suitable supplies of air and water. We can hardly say what chances there are that life would actually exist on such planets, because we know virtually nothing of how life originated on the earth. The forms which life might take on another planet are of course matters of pure speculation."

"It may be added that although the new point of view makes it probable enough that life has existed or will exist in many places in the sidereal universe we are not yet in a position to say how many of these would occur at the same time. It is fairly likely that the time during which any planet is actually the abode of life is but a small fraction of the life of the star about which it revolves."

When Money is a Curse.

It is only when money is cheapened to worthlessness for some, and made impossibly dear to others, that it becomes a curse. In short, it is a curse only in such foolish social conditions that life itself is a curse.—George Bernard Shaw.

DON'T FREEZE YOUR RADIATOR BECAUSE YOU DON'T KNOW.

Alcohol is so uncertain, especially in thermo-siphon cars. Unless you test it daily you do not know when you have protection. 12-20 gives absolute protection against freezing even at 20 below zero.

We just received five hundred gallons of 12-20 and you simply put it in to the radiator and forget that you have a water cooled car.

PLAN TO PREVENT MONOXIDE POISON

Doors of Garage Should Be Opened Before Starting Engine.

Dangerous indifference to carbon monoxide poisoning in private garages still exists, according to the American chemical society, which makes public the findings of an investigation conducted by W. P. Yant, W. A. Jacobs and L. B. Berger of the United States bureau of mines.

"In summing up the dangers arising from running an automobile in a closed private garage it can be said," according to the society's statement, "that there seems to be no limit of time during which the engine may be run in a closed private garage with safety to an occupant thereof."

Open Doors Previously.

"The doors should be opened previous to starting the engine, even if it is only intended to take the car out, because, no matter how careful people may be, a few unheeded minutes taken to look at the tires or measure the gasoline tank may prove disastrous."

"If it is necessary to run the engine for any lengthy period, as in making repairs or adjustments, the car should by all means be run into the open; and even then the direct exhaust should be avoided in order to decrease the possibility of headache and discomfort."

In spite of the recent extensive investigations on the danger of poisoning by carbon monoxide by inhaling the exhaust gas of automobiles, much indifference or ignorance still exists concerning the magnitude of the hazard in running engines in small private garages, the statement says, continuing:

People Become Indifferent.

"The public has become so accustomed to seeing men working about engines which are running, and to breathing exhaust gas in low concentrations, that they have become more or less indifferent to its dangers."

"Few people have regarded or thought that the atmosphere they are breathing is not exhaust gas in a strict sense, but an exceedingly dilute mixture of exhaust gas in air made comparatively safe through natural or artificial ventilation. Exhaust from an engine that may be running in these places is many times greater than that in a private garage at home."

Tests show that the carbon monoxide liberated per hour by five and even-passenger cars and light trucks is practically the same, especially when idling. "The cubic feet of carbon monoxide liberated per hour by these three classes of automobiles when idling are, respectively, 35, 33 and 31. Facing, the totals are 65, 105 and 68. Evidence was revealed of disastrous results should the engine be started and left in operation while the driver went elsewhere. "A concentration of 1 per cent," the statement continues, "may easily be built up in a short time, and on his return but a couple of minutes would be required to asphyxiate him."

Important Concentrations. "Although these higher concentrations are of importance and interest, they should not detract from the fact that the matter of first importance is the rapidity with which the minimum concentration and exposure that will render a man helpless, not necessarily at the time unconscious, will be formed."

"Carbon monoxide is in many cases, especially in these relatively high concentrations, very insidious in its action, and the victim will often suddenly collapse and be entirely helpless—although conscious for a time of his condition, yet unable to make an escape or give alarm."

"This state will quite rapidly develop into unconsciousness and death, especially if the engine continues to operate, which in all probability will be the case."

Beat of Two Motors

Ever notice that when you pass another car on a hill, particularly if it has more or fewer cylinders than yours, your own car seems to make a most peculiar beating noise? This is simply the difference in the speed, timing and vibration of the two engines, and is no reflection upon the perfection of your own. Just a case of two motors that beat as two.

CANOE SIDECAR IS EASILY DETACHED

The canoe sidecar, designed by an English concern, can be detached for motor use. It was recently exhibited at a motorcycle show in London.

Few Snappy Slogans on Ancient Busses

The newest fad in motordom, painting slogans on the rear of automobiles, is developing rapidly.

Some of them have gotten their owners into trouble, being too risque to be displayed throughout the country, but many of them are undeniably clever.

Here are a few of the latest gleaned from the highways:

"I rattle, but don't strike."

"Darling, I am growing old."

"If this bus could talk I'd be in jail."

"The Uncovered Wagon."

"The 1924 Spoonholder."

"Sister, you'd look tough without paint, too."

"Laugh, but I paid cash for this can."

BRUSH FOR WASHING CARS SAVES LABOR

Tedious and Laborious Task Is Greatly Facilitated.

Washing the running board, wheels and under side of the fenders of an automobile is usually a tedious and laborious task, as the use of a hose alone is not sufficient to remove the caked mud quickly and thoroughly. The work is greatly facilitated by means of a special washing brush of the kind shown in the drawing. This fixture is attached directly to the water hose and causes a constant stream of water to flow on the surface where the brush is being used.

The brush used for this purpose is an ordinary calcimine or whitewash brush about six inches wide, and having fairly stiff bristles. It is drilled through the wooden part as indicated to fit tightly on the threaded end of a three-foot length of three-quarter-inch pipe. A small slot is cut in the pipe at an angle, so that the water will be directed against the bristles. A cap, of course, is fitted on the end of the pipe, and the water hose is connected to the other end. If the brush tends to work loose on the pipe the pipe can be threaded further and provided with a locknut and tapered washer on each side of the brush.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

A Combination Brush and Water Nozzle for Washing the Under Side of Auto Fenders and Running Boards.

Good Plan for Mounting a Straight Side Tire

Many owners find it difficult properly to mount straight side tires. The correct method is to lay the rim on the floor and insert the valve stem of the tire in its proper location. Next force the bead for ten inches on each side of the valve stem into place. With the tire started in this way, the operator should force it into place by stamping upon it with his feet, first on one side of the valve stem and then on the other. If the feet prove not sufficiently powerful to force the casing into place, a tire tool must be utilized, the ends of the rim being pried into place with a screw driver.

The new owner frequently gets the tire in place only to find that he has gotten the ends of the rim overlapping in the wrong way. A rim contracting and expanding tool is a great help in this connection, but sometimes this useful device is not at hand, when the above method may be used.

GET AWAY MADE BY TWO THUGS.

Columbus, Jan. 14—(UP)—Harry Gurevitz of 677 Kimball Place avenue and proprietor of Standard Clothing Co., at 629 North High street, is in McKinley hospital Columbus, suffering a scalp wound which he sustained Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock when two holdup men entered his store and struck him on the head with a piece of gas pipe.

According to eye witnesses, the men one of whom was colored, entered the store, and upon meeting with resistance when they attempted to rob the establishment struck Gurevitz with the pipe. They also carried a gun.

The two would-be bandits hurried from the store, obtaining nothing. The proprietor, making his way to the sidewalk, called for help. The two men were last seen going "fast" thru a nearby alley. The pipe which was used in the attempted robbery as well as the hat of one of the men, lost in his hurry to make a getaway, was given to the police.

Mr. Gurevitz and a son, Aaron, operate the business jointly.

Camel Flesh as Delicacy

If, as predicted, the erection of a motor factory in Egypt spells the doom of the camel as the "ship of the desert," other uses may be found for that most stubborn of beasts. By some epicures, for instance, remarks the Manchester Guardian, it is highly esteemed as a table delicacy. The hump, when roasted, is said to be delicious, while the head, served with sauce piquante, is also described as a noble dish.

Apparently, however, camel flesh is not to everyone's taste. Some years ago several large consignments of it were imported from Algiers into France, and "Chambeau Mozabite" figured in the bill of fare of certain Parisian restaurants. After a brief vogue it fell rapidly and completely from favor, and the restaurant keepers ceased to supply it.

Faked Birth Certificates

Charged with issuing false birth certificates supposedly copied from the church register, and selling them so that applicants could receive old-age pensions ahead of time, the session clerk of the Free church of Lewis, Scotland, was arrested recently.

LEGAL NOTICE.

PROBATE COURT: PICKAWAY COUNTY, OHIO. Barton Walters, as Executor of the Estate of Mary E. Ross, Deceased, Plaintiff.

VS. Charles E. Ross et al. Defendants. NOTICE OF PUBLIC SALE OF ESTATE.

Pursuant to an order of the Probate Court of Pickaway County, Ohio, to me directed, I will offer for sale at public auction on SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1925, at 1 o'clock P. M. at the door of the Court House in the city of Circleville, the following described real estate: Situate in the State of Ohio, County of Pickaway and city of Circleville, and being lot No. five (5) as deeded by Cecelia Groom, and beginning at a post in the south line of Town street, N. 88 degrees W. 365 feet from the west line of Pickaway street; thence with the south line of Town street S. 68 degrees E. 71 1/2 feet to the middle of an 11 foot roadway; thence with the middle of said roadway S. 22 degrees W. 165 feet to the south line of a 10 foot roadway; thence N. 68 degrees W. 71 1/2 feet passing the southwest corner of said 10 foot roadway at 5 1/2 feet; thence N. 22 degrees E. 165 feet to the beginning, containing forty-three and one-half (43 1/2) poles of land, and being part of the northwest quarter of Section 30, township 11, range 21, W. S. reserve five and one-half (5 1/2) feet off of the east side of said tract for a roadway forever.

Said property is known as No. 135 Town street; and has a 4 room frame dwelling thereon; the soil is splendid for garden and there are three early Richmond cherry trees, five peach trees, one plum tree, one Bartlett pear, five varieties of grapes, gooseberry, currant bushes and other small fruit.

Appraised at $1500. TERMS—Cash. BARTON WALTERS, As Executor of the Estate of Mary E. Ross, Deceased. 14janyd5.

Freak Tree.

We are told that in Kentucky there is a tree bearing each year a crop of walnuts and a crop of mulberries, and the curious phenomenon is accounted for by the supposition that a mulberry seed fell where a walnut lay in the ground, and the young shoots came up side by side and united their forces into one solid trunk. This supposition seems feasible from the fact that the bark of the tree is on one side that of walnut and on the other that of the mulberry.

Sympathetic Brothers.

The boys of the neighborhood were anticipating the time when they could go fishing. Everett, noticing his little sister standing inside the yard, watching them wistfully through the fence, and listening to their plans without joining the conversation, remarked in an aside to his companions: "Gee, it must be tough to be only a girl."
